

A DASTARDLY DEED.

Boardinghouse Blown Up By a Dynamite Bomb.

TWO MEN INSTANTLY KILLED.

Three Others So Badly Injured That They Have Since Died—One Other Man Seriously Injured but Will Recover—Three Men Arrested Charged With the Crime, and Other Arrests Will Follow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—About half past 12 o'clock Sunday morning a terrific explosion, supposed to have been that of a dynamite bomb, occurred at the nonunion sailors' boardinghouse and saloon of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin, located on Main street between Folsom and Harrison. The sidewalk in front of Curtin's boardinghouse where the explosion occurred was torn to pieces and the buildings on the side of Curtin's house were badly shattered. Six men who were standing near the spot where the explosion occurred were buried in the debris. Two were killed and three so seriously injured that they have since died, while the other one is likely to recover.

The scene after the explosion was appalling in the extreme. One man had his face literally torn off, another both legs, and all of them were completely stripped of their clothing and covered with blood, smoke and cinders. Even the firemen in the enginehouse next door were daunted at the sight and waited for the patrol wagon.

George Holmes, a stevedore, and Erick McGinniss, a nonunion sailor, were instantly killed, and their bodies were removed to the morgue. William T. McKinzie was badly burned all over the body. Edward Garrity and Charles Owens were horribly lacerated from head to foot. All three were fatally injured.

John Curtin, Jr., son of the proprietor of the boardinghouse, was badly burned and bruised.

All were hastily removed to the receiving hospital. None of them except young Curtin regained consciousness after their arrival there.

At midnight the door of the Curtin House was locked. Most of the inmates were abed, including Mr. and Mrs. Curtin and their little daughter. Some one tried the latched door cautiously and stole away. A few minutes later the six victims strolled down the street. All but two lodged in the house. They had all been at a theater and stopped to chat a minute or two before separating. Young Curtin saw lying against the door what seemed to be a valise covered with an old blanket. Jerking away the covers he picked up the valise and instantly set it down, springing back with the cry, "My God, boys, it's dynamite."

McGuiness stepped forward and carelessly pushed the valise with one foot. That instant there was a crash that shook the whole eastern side of the city, tore beams and timbers from their fastenings, caved in partitions like eggshells, strewn the streets for two blocks with shattered windows and scraped out a yawning hole where a sidewalk had been. Worse than that, it left in the tangle of splintered boards and broken glass six bodies, stripped, most of them, of the skin, all apparently lifeless.

From the enginehouse near by and from every house men came running to the spot. They found three houses completely wrecked. Out of the ruins, men, women and children were crawling. Here was a naked foot and there another, and all about was a smell of burned flesh and of clothing that was still afire. Directly in front of Curtin's house the sidewalk was torn up for over 20 feet and in the center was a hole at least five feet deep. At first glance nothing could be seen in the hole, but when a lantern was lighted the spectators saw half-covered with earth, broken glass and splinters of wood, the mutilated remains of a man. Both legs were blown off below the knees, the head hung to the body by a few shreds of flesh and the entire surface of the body was burned to a crisp. The tattered remains of an undershirt still clung to the body, but every other particle of clothing was gone.

In the gutter next to the sidewalk lay the forms of three men and the faint moans from two of them showed that life was not yet extinct. Policemen and patrol wagons were soon at hand and the bodies were carried to the receiving hospital. It was found that Holmes and McGuiness had been instantly killed. One of the victims revived enough on the way to feel his pain and screamed hideously as he was carried to the operating table. One eye hung out on his cheek and his intestines protruded. On him, as the other victims, there was not a spot an inch square from which the blood was not oozing. The surgeons saw at once that Curtin was the only one who could live. It was only an hour or two before all the rest were dead.

Strangely enough, no one else was hurt by the explosion. The bomb was undoubtedly meant to kill Curtin, his wife and children, and all the nonunion sailors in his house. Probably it had a time fuse attached and the men who carried it feared to wait long enough to open the locked door. It was merely a chance that brought the six victims to the spot just at the moment when the deadly engine was to explode.

The police did prompt work. Three men were arrested within the hour on strong suspicion. Mrs. Curtin told the officers that a few days before several union sailors had warned her that the days of herself and husband were numbered. She guided the police to a union boardinghouse near by. They found John Dirrell in bed, feigning sleep, though everything else was wide awake. In the next room James Woods was found partially dressed. He dropped a hint on which another room that had been found empty was revisited. In it was found a man named Tracy. He had been hiding on the roof and returned, thinking the search was over. Near the door of this house was found a loaded revolver.

Dirrell and Woods were identified by Mrs. Curtin as being among the men who had threatened her, and they with Tracy were arrested. They are all union sailors, and, it is said, were to have sailed today in the same ship.

Four men implicated in the plot are known and will doubtless be arrested soon. The hatred of Curtin by the union men is due to his persistent labors for the shipowners, who are fighting the Coast Seamen's union. He has been supplying the "scab" crews to vessels all during the water front war and has done more than anyone else to injure the union.

Yesterday a dense crowd packed the streets near the scene of the explosion. Policemen in plain clothes were there by the dozen looking for evidence and more prisoners, but members of the seamen's union were hard to find.

THE KINGSBURY DISASTER.

Brakeman Thompson Held Responsible by the Coroner.

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 25.—Thompson, the missing brakeman, is held by Coroner Cole to be responsible for the wreck of the Wabash passenger train at Kingsbury. The testimony offered at the inquest clearly established the responsibility for the frightful sacrifice of life. The engineer and fireman of the freight train are exonerated from all blame.

Up to a late hour the officers had not been advised of the arrest of Thompson, though every effort is being made to unravel the mystery surrounding his disappearance. When last seen he was flagging trains. He seemed to be dazed, and not able to comprehend the result of the fearful blunder he had committed. The testimony goes to establish the fact that Thompson was sleeping, and that, aroused by the shrill whistle of the oncoming train, he ran blindly to the switch and, turning it, sent the passenger train whirling to destruction.

Condition of the Injured.

PERU, Ind., Sept. 25.—Another name has been added to the list of those killed in the Wabash wreck at Kingsbury. Willie Hoskins, one of the London Orphan Bellringers, traveling under the management of James Wookley, died Sunday after two days of intense suffering, steam from the engine having scalded his face so badly that the skin from one side dropped off. The body and legs were also scalded, and one leg was terribly crushed.

During the night the remains of Harry French, the member of the Bellringer company, who was killed instantly, were brought to Peru, and were prepared for burial. The double funeral was held at the Baptist church yesterday afternoon. The interment took place at Mount Hope cemetery, this city.

Willie Evans, one of the Bellringer company, both of whose legs were broken, remains in a serious condition. Saturday night Jim Barer of Ashley, Ind., fireman on the wrecked freight, was brought to the hospital. His arm is terribly burned, and he is scalded badly all over. He is considered by the physicians to be in a critical condition.

The little daughter of H. W. Rider is not much improved, and brain fever may attack her.

Several others are suffering intensely, but are not considered in danger.

ASSASSINS LOCATED.

The Wratten Murderers Surrounded in an Indiana Thicket.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 25.—Word was brought to this city that the Wratten murderers had been surrounded in a thicket, containing about 80 acres, in Dubois county. They were traced there by neighbors, who noticed a man carrying food to them, and the officers and hundreds of men have flocked to the scene.

The place in which the villains are hiding is 18 miles from this city, and full facts can not be learned. Detective Forsee of the Pinkertons, the man who captured the Lavelle courthouse burners, in this county two years ago, arrived here, and proceeded at once to the scene of the tragedy. It is difficult to say what might be the fate of the men if brought to this city. The streets are crowded with excited men.

Ethel, the 12-year-old daughter, who was not killed by the murderers, but has since died, was buried beside the other members of the family.

As soon as word was brought in that the murderers were corraled, men went to the scene on horseback and in anything they could get to ride in. It is not at all likely that the men, if captured, will be brought to this city. They will be taken to some adjoining county for safekeeping.

Drunk Ends in Death.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 25.—Robert Wagner, aged 27 years, and Harvey Allender, aged 23, wound up a big drunk Saturday night by going to sleep in a barn near here. Both were found dead in the morning, having been killed by fumes from a fodder-curing room near by.

Two Railroad Men Drowned.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 25.—Engineer Hofferbecker and Fireman McMahon of the Duluth and South Shore road were drowned in the bay yesterday afternoon by the capsizing of a skiff. Both were young men, unmarried.

A WEEK OF DEBATE.

Nothing Expected From Either Branch of Congress.

TWO SUBJECTS DISCUSSED.

The Repeal Bill the One Topic in the Senate While the House Members Will Talk on the Election Repeal Bill—A Vote on the Latter Measure Will Not Be Taken Until the 10th of October.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—There is a reasonable certainty that congress will spend the entire week in debate. The first business in the senate will be the resolution offered Saturday morning by Mr. Stewart, declaring for the independence of the three great branches of the federal government. This comes up in the morning hour and Mr. Stewart will make it a text for an attack upon the administration on the grounds that it has trespassed upon the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government in the case of the pending repeal bill.

Notices of formal speeches have been given by Senator Bate of Tennessee for today after the morning hour; by Senator Perkins of California, for Tuesday; by Senator Pasco of Florida, for Wednesday, and by Senator Dubois of Idaho for a later day in the week. These speeches will not fill in all of the time, as the lengthening of the sessions by the addition of an hour will give several full hours for debate each day. But before Monday evening the list of speakers will doubtless be increased, and there are half a dozen senators who stand ready to talk at any moment they may be called upon to do so.

The house will, on Tuesday next, the 26th inst., enter upon the two weeks' debate for the bill to repeal all statutes relating to supervisors of elections and special deputy marshals reported by Mr. Tucker, from the committee on election and representatives in congress. According to the terms of the order reported by the committee on rules, the house will proceed to its consideration on that day "immediately after the second morning hour, or if said second morning hour shall not have sooner ended than at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m. on said day." And it further provides "that the consideration of said bill shall be resumed immediately after the second morning hour each legislative day thereafter, up to and including the 9th day of October next. That at the hour of adjournment on said last named day the previous question shall be considered ordered on all pending amendments on the bill, to its engrossment and third reading and to its final passage."

"That on the next legislative day, to wit: the 10th day of October next at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m., the house shall resume consideration of said bill and shall proceed without further debate and without intervening motions to vote, first, on the pending amendments, if there be any, then on the engrossment and third reading of the bill, then on the final passage thereof, and then on motions to reconsider and lay on the table, should such motions be made. If from any cause this order shall not be fully executed on the last day mentioned herein, then this order shall continue in force and be operative each legislative day thereafter, until said bill shall be fully disposed of."

Mr. Tucker, whose name is attached to the measure on the calendar, will open the debate in support of the bill, and he has given notice that in the course of his remarks he will have something to say about the cost of executing laws sought to be repealed, and especially the allowances made to John I. Davenport, the chief supervisor of elections in New York. Messrs. De Armond and Lawson, members of the committee, will follow Mr. Tucker for the bill, but further than this no details of the debate on that side have been arranged. Doubtless some of the New York members will speak more fully than Mr. Tucker of Mr. Davenport's connection with the election machinery in that city.

In opposition to the bill, Mr. Deliver of Iowa will have the opening, followed by Mr. Johnson of Indiana. Both these are comparatively young men and members, but they are among the most aggressive political debaters on the Republican side, and it is expected that much vigor will mark their speeches. There are leading themselves with extracts from southern newspapers of recent date which they will use to demonstrate the necessity of the continuance of the elections laws on the statute books and before the voting stage is reached a red-hot political debate will doubtless be raging.

There are several bills on the calendar which may occupy the house in the morning hour each day prior to the election bill debate. Among these are the bills reported by Mr. Oats from the committee on judiciary to repeal a portion of the laws covered by the Tucker bill, and which, in a general way, may be said to represent the views of the conservative members of the majority. They believe that certain provisions desired repealed by the advocates of the Tucker bill, should remain in force, but they will doubtless vote for that measure, although preferring the Oats bill. However, the consideration of any other than the bill set forth in the pending order will be desultory, and final action is not anticipated on any one of importance until the election repeal bill is out of the way.

LACROSSE IN CANADA.

Disgraceful Scenes at Championship Games.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—The most disgraceful game of lacrosse ever played in Canada came off between the Shamrocks of Montreal and the Capitals of Ottawa. It was for the championship of the world, and this was the deciding game. There were 10,000 people on the grounds, 8,000 of them being Shamrock sympathizers.

After the first game was captured by the Capitals, the Shamrocks started to play roughly and the first result was that Thomas Crown, goalkeeper of the Capitals, was knocked down by a blow from the lacrosse stick of a Shamrock player, which cut his head open. As Devine, another Capital player, was helping Crown off the grounds, a spectator struck him full in the face, cutting him badly. Doctors were called in and fixed the men up so that they could appear on the field.

The first two games were taken by the Capitals; the next two by the Shamrocks, at the close of which the crowd broke down the railings inclosing the field, and in the melee a number of the Capital men were injured. During the last two games Lacky of the Capitals was ruptured by a kick from Duggan, the Shamrock goalkeeper, and had to be taken to his hotel in an ambulance. He is badly hurt and will never play lacrosse again.

Crown, Lacky, Carson and Carrington of the Capitals were also injured.

It was dark when the fifth and deciding game was won by the Capitals, and this was the signal for a general onslaught. Steward, captain of the Capitals; Devine and Carson were set upon and badly beaten. The Capitals were run into their dressingroom which was guarded by the police, while the 'bus from the hotel had to be backed right up to the door of the dressingroom so that the Capitals could enter.

The referee, Mr. W. Aird, disappeared after the game was over, as the crowd wanted to get at him for giving the match to the Capitals.

The game was the most exciting in years and the betting was very heavy. The Capitals were sent home to Ottawa in a special train. It is thought that the exhibition will do much to kill the game of lacrosse in Canada.

RACE WAR IN BROOKLYN.

Fierce Battle Between Italians and Irishmen.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25.—A race war occurred at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon between gangs employed by the Brooklyn city railroad at the corner of Nassau street and Edison avenue. A gang of Italians, under Joseph H. Sugeretto, were laying tracks at this point when Foreman Cusack, in charge of 70 Irishmen, objected to the manner in which the work was done and ordered the work done over again.

The two foremen had a war of words which resulted in Cusack being struck in the face by the Italian. He retaliated, whereupon Sugeretto's assistants, about 40 in number, rushed to their chief's assistance. The Irishmen, seeing Cusack in danger, also rushed forward and a spirited battle ensued.

Shovels, picks and any weapon they could lay their hands on were used. None of the combatants escaped bruises, and it is thought that in some of the cases the injuries will prove fatal.

During the fight four Italians went to the roof of the house on Nassau street and began a fusillade of bricks and stones on the heads of the contending parties.

After the fight was over the police of the Twenty-first precinct appeared upon the scene and placed fifteen of the Italians under arrest, but did not interfere with any of the Irishmen and later in the day Sugeretto and four of his men were arrested. During the battle the streets in the neighborhood were crowded. Many of the missiles went wide of their mark and struck onlookers.

NO MEETING OF NEGROES.

New Orleans Colored Men Satisfied With Governor Foster's Action.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—The leaders who have called a meeting of the colored people for Monday night to protest against the late lynchings in Jefferson withdrew their call. This was done at the suggestion of those whites who are opposed to lynch law. They took the position that a colored meeting to denounce the Jefferson outrage would arouse race prejudice, and that all should unite, regardless of color, to oppose lynch law and suppress violence.

The negroes say that the papers of this city have accomplished all that was intended, which was to induce the governor to order an investigation.

District Attorney Jervais Leche, who was instructed by Governor Foster several days ago to make an investigation, is here. He has done nothing yet, and is being closely watched by the press to see that he does not squelch the matter.

MAY NEVER BE CZA.

Russia's Ruler Prefers His Son Michael to His Elder Brother.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—It is rumored here that the Czar of Russia will alter the succession to the throne, making the Grand Duke Michael, his fourth son, his successor. It is supposed that the reason for this step is that the czarowitch is of so sulky a nature and is totally without force of character.

Besides this, he has extremely radical opinions, opposed to the persecution of the Jews, and in many other ways is not in accord with his father. The Grand Duke George, the czar's second son, cares little for political life. He is a jolly sailor and a careless liver. The czar's affections are centered in the precocious Michael.

ROBBERS THWARTED

An Attempt Made to Rob the Safe of an Indiana School

FOILED BY A PLUCKY WOMAN.

Pursued by Students and Citizens, They Showed Fight—A Nervey Farmer, With a Winchester, Came to the Rescue, Instantly Killing One and Wounding the Other in the Hand—The Desperadoes Identified.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Sept. 25.—One of the boldest attempts at robbery ever made in this country was made Saturday afternoon, when two masked men boldly entered the office of the Northern Indiana Normal school and tried to rob the large safe.

Miss Emma Jones, one of the secretaries, entered the private office, and was confronted with two revolvers and a command to keep quiet. She struck one of the robbers, knocking it to the floor. She then ran through the door when one of the robbers fired at her, and she ran screaming into the street. The robbers, seeing that discovery was sure, walked out of the door and down the steps, and started on the run. In a few minutes students and citizens were in pursuit, armed with all kinds of firearms.

About a mile from town the first of the pursuers came up with them, when they were fired upon by the robbers. An interchange of shots developed into a regular fusillade. Nathan O. Howe of Michigan City was coming to town with a load of peaches. Seeing the chase, he ran to a farmhouse and borrowed a 44-caliber Winchester, and, running into the field, ordered them to surrender, when they began firing at him. He fired, hitting one of them in the side, the ball passing through his body and arm, killing him instantly. His companion picked up his revolver and fired, when Howe shot again, hitting him in the hand. Seeing his partner was dead, he surrendered.

The injured man was brought back to town by Sheriff Stoddard and lodged in jail, where Drs. Leatherman and Pocock dressed his injuries. He is Claire Moody of Kalamazoo, Mich., about 22 years old, nicely dressed, with white tie and Prince Albert coat, and wore a mask and heavy false beard and wig. He came here about three weeks ago, and claimed to be a student, but had never entered school.

The dead man at one time attended school here, and claimed to be from Cincinnati. He returned here a few days ago and inquired for Moody. His name was Frank E. Robinson. He was aged about 27.

A search of their room developed that they had their trunks packed ready to leave, and letters found in Robinson's trunk show that he was from Versailles, Ind.

Howe, who did the shooting, is a son of the veteran detective, Frank Howe, who retired from service and now lives in Michigan City. His peaches were brought to town and ex-representative C. J. Kern sold them at auction on the public square. His 18 baskets, containing about one-fifth bushel each, were sold at prices ranging from $8 to $100, the purchasers returning them to be resold. They netted him over $1,000. Professor Kinsey of the normal paid $100 for one basket.

Professor Kinsey of the normal school said that from what they could ascertain Moody and Robinson came here for the express purpose of robbing the safe. As it was the beginning of a new year, they supposed there would be a large sum of money in the safe. He had just left the office to transact some business, and the college policemen started to one of the buildings, leaving the office in possession of the secretaries, Misses Kate Korby and Emma Jones. The robbers had been seen around the office several times, and their plans were to overpower the ladies and compel them to open the safe.

WILD ON THE BIG WHEEL.

A. G. Wherritt of Covington Tries to Leap Out of One of the Cars.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The guard in one of the cars of the Ferris wheel at the world's fair had an exciting experience Saturday afternoon, as did also Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wherritt of Covington, Ky. Mr. Wherritt, it seems, is strangely affected when he ascends to great heights, but his wife, who had been up in the wheel, said that she had no idea that it would affect him. Saturday afternoon they started up together, and when the car was at the upper turn, 300 feet from the ground, Mr. Wherritt gave a scream and tried to dash through one of the windows.

He seized one of the iron bars with which they are guarded and tried to bend it. The guard and some of the gentlemen in the car grappled with him, and a furious struggle followed, the women screaming and rushing frantically from side to side to avoid the struggling men. The glass in the windows was broken, and Mr. Wherritt continued unmanageable until the car reached the lower turn, when he began to calm down, and shortly after being removed from the car came to his senses again.

Bismarck Highly Gratified.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Prince Bismarck is regaining his strength. The physician has sent to Emperor William a long written report of his distinguished patient's condition. Count Herbert Bismarck and Count Von Rantzen, son-in-law of Prince Bismarck, arrived at Kissingen to visit the ex-chancellor. The old statesman was greatly pleased and touched at receiving the emperor's message of sympathy and the offer of a residence in an imperial castle, and is most warm in his expressions of appreciation of the kaiser's generosity.

WEATHER FORECAST.
Showers; southeast winds, becoming westerly.

The House of Representatives, by a big majority, has adopted Congressman Paynter's bill depriving many of the smaller committees of their clerks. These clerks had been having an easy time of it, as some of the committees rarely ever made a report and seldom had anything to do, but the clerks drew their salaries right along, all the same.

BENJAMIN HARRISON took possession of the administration of this Government March 4th, 1889, with a surplus in the United States Treasury of more than $100,000,000. Benjamin Harrison quit the administration of the Government on the 4th of March, 1893, with that surplus squandered—wasted. In spite of the immense revenues of the Government in these four years of his administration $100,000,000 took wings, and to-day no man can tell where it has flown. Is not this a powerful object lesson?

BRECKINRIDGE'S ANSWER.

He Denies Emphatically All of Miss Madeline Pollard's Declarations.

At Washington Saturday, Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge filed his answer to the declaration made by Miss Madeline V. Pollard in her suit for $50,000 for breach of promise.

In the answer to the third count of her petition he says that in the spring of 1884, on the train from Lexington to Frankfort, he was accosted by a young woman between 20 and 22 years of age, who introduced herself to him as Miss Madeline Breckinridge Pollard, saying that her father was such an admirer of John C. Breckinridge that he named her after said Breckinridge; that subsequently the defendant received a letter from the plaintiff saying that she was in great distress and desired his legal advice, and asking him to see her at Wesleyan College, in Cincinnati, which the defendant answered was inconvenient, upon which she notified him that the matter about which she was distressed was an engagement to marry, which had assumed a condition worse than a divorce suit, and reiterating her request to see him personally; that the defendant did see the plaintiff at said college and she gave him a full recital of her relations with one James C. Rodes, and thereupon the defendant advised her to consummate the contract between her and said Rodes by marriage, and subsequently, after a full conversation with the said Rodes, the defendant renewed his advice, and the defendant denies that he then, or at any other time or place, by wiles or artifices and protestations of affection, or by any other means, attempted to take advantage of the youth and inexperience of the plaintiff.

He denies that he then, or at any other time, seduced the said plaintiff; and he denies that the plaintiff was at any time pregnant by the defendant, or that he at any time prevented her from going abroad or from entering upon any career that the plaintiff desired to enter upon, or that it was through any protestations, influence or request of the defendant that the plaintiff failed either to go abroad or to enter upon any career she desired, and he denies that there was at any time any agreement, contract or understanding of marriage between the plaintiff and the defendant, and the plaintiff knew during her entire acquaintance with the defendant that a marriage between the plaintiff and defendant was impossible.

Decca's Divorce.

The testimony for the divorce is now being taken in the suit of Mme. Marie Decca against Francis Leon Chrisman, her husband, to prove title to Villa Decca, in Harrisburg, Pa. Chrisman was on the stand Friday, and the burden of his testimony was that the extravagant habits of the songstress made it impossible to save any money, and that his money was used to buy the home.

Mr. Thomas P. Hopper has taken up his abode in the handsome residence on Third street, adjoining Mr. Thomas A. Keith's.

BISHOP GALLOWAY, for reasons of his own, has decided to send Rev. C. J. Nugent to Paris, and allow Rev. J. O. A. Vaught to remain at Harrodsburg another year.

A POSTAL from Swango Springs says Mrs. C. C. Arthur, of Sardis, celebrated her birthday September 20th by taking a drive to the pretty village of Hazel Green, accompanied by Mrs. Poole, Miss Ida Roff and Mrs. J. D. Hawkins. The waters of the iron-sulphur spring are healing and refreshing, and the invalids are all on the improve.

AN OLD COUPLE MURDERED.

Their House Set on Fire to Cover Up the Crime.

NEWTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—An inoffensive old cripple, Samuel Rightly, aged 84 years, and his wife, two years younger, who lived alone on their farm in Northampton township, near this place, were found murdered some time Saturday night. The perpetrators of the deed afterward set fire to the house to cover up their crime. Early Sunday morning a neighbor discovered that the house of the Rightlys was on fire.

With the assistance of other neighbors he extinguished the flames. The charred remains of the aged couple were found lying on a bed in a room on the first floor. Mr. Rightly's skull had been fractured by a hatchet or ax and Mrs. Rightly's head and face were cut in several places. Nothing is known of the murderer as the old people were known to be in indigent circumstances. All day the county officers have been hunting for the murderer or murderers but without success.

RAILROAD MEN ASSAULTED.

Robbery Is Thought to Have Been the Motive of the Deed.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 25.—Members of the train crew of the Vandalla western bound train that arrived here at 2 o'clock Sunday morning had a shooting experience with two negroes between Indianapolis and here. They were found on a platform, and when ordered off drew revolvers on the conductor and brakeman. The conductor drew his revolver and several shots were exchanged, the negroes leaving the train.

Just after leaving his engine here at the end of the same run, Fireman Blake was assaulted by two men and seriously injured. The assailants were scared away by his cries for help. The Vandalla paid off Saturday and it is thought highway robbery was intended in this case.

Accidentally Shot.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 25.—William Sims, while hunting, put his shotgun on the ground, leaning the muzzle against his breast. It was discharged, tearing away his entire right side and lung. Strange as it may seem he still lives, but cannot survive.

MAYSLEICK.

The mercury last week stood from 90 to 100. Mr. Smith, of Covington, a river man, is here visiting his sister, Mrs. A. P. Gooding.

Politics is running high in this place at this time, and the prospect is that it will be still warmer.

Col. John B. Herndon, of Desha Valley, made us a social call last Friday. He is looking hale and hearty.

The drouth still continues in its worst form. Drinking and stock water in many places are exhausted.

A goodly number of our citizens are now attending the World's Fair, while others have lately returned.

Alex Duke is putting a new barn in the place of the one that recently burned, so that he can house his tobacco.

Report has it that Joe E. Caldwell and Fred Fox have bought the St. Charles Hotel at this place for $3,200 cash.

S. A. Piper, of Maysville, made us a social call last Thursday. He has been traveling through Fleming and Mason.

Uncle George Riley dropped in to see us last Thursday afternoon. Although quite feeble he is active for one of his age.

The water carts are running here from daylight until dark hauling from ponds and the Wilson big spring, one of the grandest springs in all this country.

Richard Hopper's barn, with his new crop of tobacco, burned last Tuesday night about 11 o'clock. He had an insurance of $500 on the barn and $1,000 on the tobacco. He had a good crop.

Nelson Coats, one of our oldest and highly respected colored citizens, was interred in our cemetery last Friday. While his age is not correctly known it is thought he was about 80 years of age. He was very quiet, peaceable and polite to all.

Hon. A. P. Gooding, wife and daughter, came in from the World's Fair last Tuesday night all well and delighted with their trip. They were on the rear train of the wreck on the Big Four road on their return home and were badly frightened, but none of the party in their coach were injured.

Last Thursday night the Lewisburg string band came over here and went up to serenade Hon. A. P. Gooding, our coming Senator. No notice had been given, but somehow or other late in the evening the news leaked out, hence the ladies had in waiting a bountiful table spread with ices, cakes and melons, which was enjoyed by all present. And the Hon. A. P. did his part in entertaining, having provided a good supply of the best of—well, they put sugar in it, and then the fine cigars were set out in the crowd. Only those that were there have any conception of how the host and hostess and the three beautiful young ladies served the crowd. A. P. will have many pleasant remembrances of that night while serving as our next honored Senator. The writer was specially invited and was present.

The young folks present and some of the older ones tripped the fantastic to the beautiful strains of music until 12 o'clock, while others enjoyed a game of cards. Suffice it to say everything was in keeping, and in the wind-up a pleasant good night to all, hoping to meet again in the near future. Among the number present we mention J. M. Alexander, Esq., Elza Clift, of Lewisburg, John Clift, B. F. Clift, Wesley Prather and Thomas Prather and wife; but the most attractive one present was little Effie, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gooding, a beautiful and bright child. May she long live to gladden the hearts of her parents.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Admiral Mellos Still Holds Off From Bombarding Rio Janeiro.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 25.—According to the latest reports from Rio Janeiro the situation there is stationary. No direct news has been received from the Brazilian capital, because of the censorship established over all telegraphic dispatches. The revolutionaries' warships hold Desterro and Santa Catarina.

News that some of Admiral Mellos' ships have sailed for Santos to renew the attack upon that place has been confirmed. The Republican and Pallas have taken the town of San Francisco. It is reported that the government of Uruguay has sold arms to the revolutionaries in Rio Grande. The Brazil Lloyd's steamer Santos has had her machinery disabled in order to prevent her crew from turning her over to Admiral Mellos.

Peixoto's Side.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The following official dispatch has been received by the Brazilian delegation here, dated Rio Janeiro, Sept. 22, 5 p. m.: "The city has assumed its customary aspect, and has been reinvigorated by means of the railway which connects the state of Rio Janeiro with Minas-Geraes. Sao Paulo, of which Santos is the port, has never suffered from the lack of food. The rebels never succeeded for an instant in taking possession of a single point on the shore, neither at Niteroy nor at Santos.

There is discouragement in the ranks every day, and some submit themselves to the government. Both chambers continue meeting regularly. President Peixoto has informed them that he deemed it needless to prolong the state of siege. No constitutional guarantee has been suspended, and the newspapers appear without censorship in all the states. Indignation increases against the ambition of the men who have ventured to disturb order and the normal working of the institutions."

ROBBERY WAS THEIR OBJECT.

A Streetcar Conductor Shot and Killed by a Negro.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—Edgar Fitzwilliams, a car conductor, was shot and killed by a negro. Fitzwilliams was an employee of the Eli Walker Dry Goods company and was acting as substitute on the car for James Waldon, the regular conductor. The car is the extreme western extension of the suburban line with but one man to act as ticket-taker and motorman combined. At the hour named the car had reached a lonely place in the outer suburbs, with four negroes and one white lady passenger on board.

Fitzwilliams entered the car to collect fares, and as he approached the negroes one of them pulled a pistol and sent a bullet through the victim's heart. The lady screamed and jumped from the car, which was not in motion. As she went out the door a bullet grazed her head. The negroes escaped. The screams of the lady attracted attention and shortly afterward the police were notified. Robbery was the negroes' object, but they were frightened by the lady's screams.

Several arrests of suspects have been made, but Miss Schuble, the lady passenger, was unable to identify any of the negroes.

SHOT AND PLACED ON THE TRACK.

The Treatment Two Negroes Received From White Men.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25.—The body of Joseph Wesley, a negro section laborer, was run over and terribly mangled one mile north of Monroe, La., by a train. Wesley had been murdered, and the body placed on the track. Ed Esterling, also a section hand, was found shot and badly wounded. Esterling says that the men were at work when they were attacked by some white men, who, after firing the shot, placed both bodies on the rails.

Esterling revived and dragged himself off the track, but was unable to remove the body of Wesley. He can not give a lucid description of the murderers, but it is believed that the deed was committed by natives of the locality, who objected to the negroes being employed on the railroad, and who had threatened to drive them out of the country.

The colored population is said to be greatly excited, and further trouble may ensue.

MURDER ENDS UNHAPPY MARRIAGE.

A Husband Shoots His Wife, and Is Killed by Their Boarder.

PETOSKEY, Mich., Sept. 25.—Abram Wilsey, a laborer who has been working in the Rice tannery, shot his wife four times with a revolver and was himself instantly killed by a young man named Henry Sik, who had boarded with them for some time. The Wilseys have lived unhappily ever since their marriage seven years ago, and they parted by mutual consent three years ago, when the woman applied for a divorce.

Wilsey went to her boardinghouse, and after vainly trying to induce his wife to live with him he drew a revolver, and as she fled he fired four shots, all taking effect and producing probably fatal injuries. Young Sik rushed into the room and, lodging behind the door, fired four times, one ball going through Wilsey's body, and the other striking him in the forehead, causing instant death. Sik is under surveillance, awaiting the result of the inquest.

Russian Warship Overdue.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—The Russian warship Rousalka, 1,900 tons, carrying a crew of 150 seamen and 10 officers, sailed on Tuesday last for Revel, a fortified town of Russia, on the Gulf of Finland, for Helsingfors, capital of Finland, on the same gulf. The Rousalka is now much overdue and grave anxiety for her safety is felt even at the admiralty.

A Terrible Fall Ending With Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Charles Bardery, a rigger, employed by the Biter & Conolly Company, Pittsburgh, met a horrible death by falling 154 feet from the top of an iron chimney now in process of construction at the power house of the Brooklyn City Railroad com-

FOUR TRAINMEN ARRESTED.

Engineer and Brakeman Accused of Causing the Manteno Wreck.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Sept. 25.—Thomas Ames, the engineer of the second section of the ill-fated Big Four train in the Manteno wreck, was arrested and brought to this city. Orville Duncan, the brakeman of the first section, was arrested at Indianapolis, but can not be brought here without requisition papers.

Both men were arrested on coroner's warrants, and there seems to be some doubt as to whether they can be legally committed to jail, so the sheriff will not receive them. Engineer Ames is at liberty, and prepared to give bail as soon as he can have a hearing, but the trouble seems to be to get a hearing, as the coroner's warrants can not be returned to a justice.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

It is an agreeable Laxative for the Bowels; can be made into a Tea for use in one minute. Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per package.
